EDTECH CASE STUDY

Delivering innovative, customised contact centre solutions from SOUTH AFRICA to the GLOBAL market.

THE OPPORTUNITY

In 2014, CallForce was approached by an international client that needed assistance teaching conversational English to Chinese, Japanese and Taiwanese markets.

The SCOPE OF WORK was to facilitate live-streamed classes from South Africa to students in these East Asian countries 18 hours a day, 7 days a week, 365 days of the year.

The contact centre would deliver across THREE CHANNELS simultaneously – VIDEO, VOICE AND CHAT.

A complexity we faced was that we had to deliver the service to multiple customers, varying from 1 to 6 students in a virtual classroom, whilst still achieving a world-class learning experience.

This was a first-of-its-kind Edtech BPO operation to be established in South Africa, and we developed a unique blueprint to deliver this complex omni-channel service.

THE RESULTS

Within a short period, CallForce had not only managed to deliver the required service, we were able to exceed the Service Level Agreement targets with 98% of our consultants scoring an average of above 90% SLA per month.

These outstanding results led our client to sign a three-year contract with a ramp plan that grew the campaign by 20% month on month. This growth allowed us to deliver up to 65 000 hours of sessions in peak months without comprising on the customer experience. We continued to achieve over 97% customer satisfaction ratings across the 2 million students taught utilising our unique contact centre model, every year.
